STOLEN TOBACCOThieves Took Premiums in Looting Warehouse.

BIG HAUL OF VALUABLE LEAF

ENTRANCE WAS GAINED
THROUGH IRON GRATING.Robbers Evidently Knew Premises, but
No Indication of Their Identity
Has Been Disclosed by Proprietor.Burglars who were apparently confident that they would not be interrupted broke the iron grating over the coal chute in the rear of M. Fritz & Sons' wholesale tobacco house, 314 and 316 South Seventh street, some time last night, and carted away several hundreds of dollars' worth of the weed and the prizes given to purchasers.Mr. Fritz roughly estimates the value of the stolen tobacco alone at $300, and there were many other things taken, but it will be impossible for the firm to tell exactly the loss until an inventory is made of the stock. It is very plain that the thieves used a wagon to transport their stuff, for they handled a number of 25-pound butts of tobacco, four of which they left lying near their forced entrance and exit.They used a crowbar to break the lock
of the grating and several of the thin bars
of iron. Then it was easy to slide down into the cellar and mount the stairs to the warehouses and offices, which they did.
They rolled butt after butt of fine leaf tobacco to the coal chute, through which it was hoisted to their vehicle outside in the alleyway. They either became tired handling the heavy loads or had their wagon loaded, for they quit work before they had taken all that had been carried to the chute and turned their attention in a new direction.They broke open the cash drawer of the retail stand near the front door and hypothecated several dollars in small change.
They did the same with the office drawer,
but it contained only a few pennies. Then they gathered in a stock of prizes which tobacco manufacturers offer for a number of tobacco tags and which the firm of
M. Fritz & Sons distribute to the trade.Many of these prizes are of considerable value, and the thieves took all in sight.
They had a quantity of silver knives, forks,
spoons and other tableware in their possession when they departed, and they also confiscated a heavy assortment of meat-churn
goods, the best of cigars and some exceptionally fine smoking tobacco. It is very evident that they made no haste to get away, from the thorough manner in which their selections were made. Each butt of tobacco was worth at least $10, and only
from a hurried glance at things does Mr.
Fritz make his estimate.When the clerks opened the store at 7 o'clock this morning, the burglary was immediately discovered and reported to the police. There is absolutely no clue to the thieves, but it is surmised that somebody must have made an inspection of the premises before the act was decided upon. This is the third time, in as many years, that this firm has been the victim of thieves,
who have exploited different methods of gaining entrance.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Because it is alleged that Lutesville, a village of mittee of 17" has been organized whose object is to tar and feather men who desert

their wives.The committee, whose members are not says:

"We unto the person that betrays the laws of decency. Tar is waiting to be used and feathers there are in abundance."
The committee made its first visit last Tuesday night, when E. T. Park was tarred

TERMS OF SETTLEMENT SAID TO HAVE BEEN REACHED.The Details of the Conference and the Conditions of the Agreement
Have Not Yet Been Given to the Public.WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—John Mitchell,
president of the United Mine Workers,
and Hon. Wayne MacVeagh, representing the mine owners, were in secret conference for several hours today. After the conference had been in progress for an hour and a half, Mr. Darrow, Mr. Mitchell's attorney, came out of the conference room and intimated that an agreement had been reached.Mr. Mitchell and Clarence S. Darrow, of H. D. Lloyd of counsel for the miners arrived in Washington early this morning
and later were in conference with Wayne
MacVeagh, representing the Pennsylvania
Coal Co. and the Hillside Coal and Iron Co. The meeting was held in the room of Mr. Darrow, in the Hotel Willard, and lasted for three hours.The conference was over at 1 o'clock and Mr. Darrow admitted the newspaper men to his room. He announced that nothing had been done this morning except to go over the various propositions which have been advanced. He declined to state what these were, but intimated that they were substantially the same as those which recently have been published, namely, a nine-month day, a 10 per cent increase and yearly agreement with the miners.Mr. MacVeagh refused to state whether or not he represented the coal companies at today's conference, but Mr. Darrow said he did not think Mr. MacVeagh would wish to make a contract without consulting the other companies. He said that the main features of the proposed agreement had been about decided upon at Scranton and that when a complete agreement is effected it will be submitted to the commission.When asked what would be done should some of the companies hold out, Mr. Darrow stated that in that event the commission would be obliged to hear the evidence, although he did not doubt that all would consent to the agreement. It was learned before leaving Scranton, it was learned today, the commission received a united statement from the Pennsylvania Coal Co.
and the Hillside Coal and Iron Co. that the provisions of the tentative agreement
which had been prepared at the conference
there, and that a complete agreement had been reached.

emerged from Judge Hough's courtroom
late yesterday afternoon and clasped her mother in her arms.The mother, Mrs. Samuel Radford, 2704
Lucas avenue, responded to the caress.
Others joined the happy group and congratulated the young woman on the decision of the court which dissolved her marriage
bonds.It was the culminating scene in the fourth chapter of a remarkable story of love, elopement and divorce, of which she had been the central figure. Her husband, Robert Bolms, 4334 Maryland avenue, did not appear. The decree was granted by default.In granting the decree to Mrs. Bolms the court restored to her her maiden name.
Twice married and twice divorced from the same man before she was 21 is the most unusual feature of Miss Radford's romance,
added to which is the fact that she eloped
with the man of her choice in each instance, regardless of the dissent of her parents and other relatives.

CHAPTER I.

They Meet in Church.

Beulah Radford and Robert Bolms met
at a class meeting in Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and Pine streets, in January, 1901.Both attended service regularly. One night after the meeting they were introduced to each other by a mutual acquaintance. Bolms pressed her hand, its touch thrilled her strangely. He went home much agitated. All night the vision of the dark-eyed Southern girl haunted his slumbers.
He had a notion of trust with a dry goods company. The vision of the girl he had met at the church the night before disturbed him. Stealing a moment from business cares he wrote a letter to Miss Radford. It was couched in terms to flatter any maid's heart. He humbly sought permission to call.Miss Radford did not reply. The next day was Sunday and they met at the evangelistic service at the church. At the service they spoke. His eyes told of his affection.
His manner and evident culture moved the girl in his favor. They walked to her home together.Bolms proved a gallant wooer. Twice and thrice a week he called upon her. Being opposed to theaters their greatest relaxation was in attending social affairs continued by the denomination to which they belonged. Several weeks after he began his addresses Bolms told of his love.
He found that it was reciprocated. They agreed to wed.

Parental Objection.

There was parental objection to be overcome. Relatives pointed out the discrepancy in ages. He was 32, she 14 years his junior."Mr. Bolms was not by any means a prohibitionist," stated the divorced wife Monday night. "My relatives learned of this.
It increased their opposition. I, woman-like, thought I would love would change him and refused to listen to the pleadings of my parents to resist his attentions."Finding that the girl's parents were opposed unalterably to him as a suitor, Bolms planned an elopement. Miss Radford acquiesced. By stealth she made a marriage gown, finding moments for the task when the others were asleep. It was a pink organdy and she shed a girl's happy tears
over it.One Wednesday morning, June 27, 1901,
she went downtown on an ostensible shopping excursion. Bolms met her on Broadway. He had already secured a marriage license. They were driven to the residence of John Barker, a Baptist minister, on West Fourth street. He laced Jack in a room near the rear of the building. The ceremony was performed by the clergyman present
and then they drove to apartments on Chouteau street, which the groom had fitted up for his bride.The elopement was a shock to Mrs.
Bolms' parents. It was a week before she mustered up enough courage to visit them.

CHAPTER II.

Happy for Two Months.

For two months the newly wedded pair were very happy. There was naught to mar the felicity. Then her husband, Miss a thoughtless, became transformed from a devoted lover to a brutal brute. He band to a condition bordering on brutishness. She retreated to her room, but the love he bore her to conquer her failing promised time and again, she says, but did not keep his promise.One night, three months after the elopement, he threw a chair at her, she says.
It was their first serious quarrel. Conditions grew more and more intolerable, she declared, and she often feared for her life.
At times, she says, he was insanely jealous.The disparity in their ages increased this tendency, she believes. Once, when walking, she remarked:
"People look at us as if we were father
and daughter."He resented the thoughtless remark.
Finally the home atmosphere grew so strained that she left him Sept. 25 and returned to her parents. They received her gladly. She applied for a divorce and
Feb. 25, 1902, it was granted by Judge Spencer.

CHAPTER III.

Wedded Second Time.

For several months they did not see each other. Bolms secured lodgings with Mr.
and Mrs. Samuel Linberry, 1103 St. Anne avenue. The Linberrys were friends of Bolms' former wife. She frequently visited them. Thus the divorced pair met again. Bolms was the small handsome, well-dressed man, and his wife was a stout, middle-aged woman. They were suffering. Every day he wrote to her, pleading his cause. Many of the letters were sent by special delivery. Finally she again consented.A second agreement was arranged. Mrs.
Radford was visiting a married daughter in Alabama. Bolms wanted to go to St.
Charles, Mo., to see his mother. He had returned before the mother's return. The girl would not consent to this. "It would be too much deception," she said. "You must wait until my mother returns."Bolms set about preparing her wedding gown. The other one was pink, she softly declared.

EIGHT NEGROES WERE ARRESTED
IN RAID LAST NIGHT.For the second time during the week a gang of policy players was discharged in the City Hall Police Court this morning
because, as Judge Sidener stated, the police had not obtained evidence sufficient for a conviction.The defendants, eight negroes, were captured by Serg. Driscoll and Detectives
Dowdell, Manion, Sullivan, Hageman, Roche, Bambrick and Mahon shortly after 9 o'clock
last night.They found the men gathered in the headquarters of the "Standard" game, in a room in the rear of 10 and 12 South Tenth street, and figuring up the results of the
"o'clock drawing, but as they saw no money change hands, they could not give the class of evidence which the court demanded for conviction.As stated in expose of the games in the Post-Dispatch, which occasioned the two raids made thus far, the "Standard" is conducted with more secrecy than the rest.
Since the raid on the "Henry" game precautions at the "Standard" were increased,
and last night the leaders had so many watchers in the neighborhood of their headquarters that the officers almost stumbled over them in passing the place.The members of the squad say they were on their way to raid another game at the time, but changed their plans when they saw the pickets.When the officers broke in the bolts on the door and rushed back a huge stone which had been placed against it they found eight negroes, warned of their approach, making a grand bonfire of their shirts, tickets and lists of numbers in a stove.The principal article of evidence which they secured was the small handwritten note on which the slips announcing the results of the drawing were being printed.
No money was seen to pass from any of those present to others. The officers had purchased no tickets. When these facts were presented Judge Sidener dismissed the case.The negroes gave their names as Alex Taylor, Alvin White, William Simpson,

with what it calls the "hypocrisy of idealizing Herr Krupp as a benevolent genius."
The paper does not touch on the immediate charges which it brought against the deceased, but analyzes the pension system of the Krupp firm, which, it says, is a species of refined swindling, adding:
"The enormous so-called benevolent funds
have been built up by compulsory contributions from the employees who could be arbitrarily deprived of participation in the advantages.""They are required to contribute 2 1/2 per cent of their wages for 20 years before they are eligible to a pension upon disability. In the meantime, if an employee is discharged or resigns, he loses all he has contributed, often exceeding $200.""This employees are morally and economically terrorized and must in humility accept every petty regulation of the firm's officials or lose 2 1/2 per cent of what they have earned in the firm's service."This terrorism is applied to political opinions where they become known. The number of men leaving or discharged during the past three years averaged 700 to 800 yearly. The employees found the system so unsatisfactory that five great meetings were held last year for the purpose of seeking legal redress.The Vorwaerts cites an instance of a laborer who was discharged after 20 years of service. The article on Herr Krupp and the intense sensation they have caused, has called a furious political campaign, describing the pension system as a swindle.The paper also quotes the Social budget

ADGES REVEALS ALL ABOUT RIBS

UPHELD DECISION OF LOWER COURT FOR DAMAGES.

"GREEN STICK FRACTURE"

A Rib Is Like a Stick and a Stick Fracture Can Result Even If the Owner Is Aged 69.

In handing down a decision affirming the findings of the Circuit Court in the case of John Gorman vs. the St. Louis Transit Co., Judge Black, Barclay and Goode of the Court of Appeals delivered a lengthy and humorous dissertation on the human rib.

Gorman sued the transit company for injuries alleged to have been received on Nov. 19, 1901, by being thrown from a street car at Hall's Ferry and Broadway. His sustained fracture of one rib and "green-stick" fracture of two others on his left side.

He brought suit in the Circuit Court and was awarded $500 damages. After unsuccessful motions for new trial the transit company appealed.

The opinion of the judges of the Court of Appeals abounds in witticisms relative to the original rib of Adam, progenitor of the human race. Excerpts from the opinion follow:

"The defendant's counsel in their briefs earnestly and eloquently assail the testimony of the plaintiff's attending physician and expert called in his support and array the evidence of the defendant's expert witnesses to show that the plaintiff's ribs are not broken like a green stick, but are broken like a green stick."

"Defendant's expert witnesses so testified. Plaintiff's attending physician testified that two of plaintiff's ribs did sustain 'green-stick' fracture and the other all part fractures for the plaintiff averred that a 69-year-old rib might sustain such a fracture."

SCIENTIFIC IMPORTANCE.
"Defendant's counsel regards this question as one of scientific importance that ought to be settled, and settled in this case in the interest of science and justice and appeal to us in the noble profession of D. to settle the question, and to settle it according to the condition of defendant's counsel."

"Now, it would be very gratifying to us, no doubt, also the progress of the country, if we could once for all fix the exact age when a rib will not break like a green stick, that is break on one side, bending fast and refusing to sever. Let us consider the matter."

"Ribs are of ancient origin. Adam had an experience with one when he was in Eden, and it was a singular bird in Eden's bowels, instead of sitting there, he was sitting in the rib cage. Ribs are not only ancient but common. They carry them about us and have them on our bill of fare every day. It seems like their qualities and propensities would be a matter of common knowledge."

"But we must confess that until we read it in the bill of exceptions we never thought there was any sympathy between ribs and green sticks or any other. But the experts say that in the case of an injury to the rib there is. It is said that a great calamity makes a rib like a green stick. This, this explains the action of the rib in imitating the stick when visited by a calamity."

IMITATE STICKS.
"There is no controversy about the fact that ribs do imitate sticks. The experts on both sides agree to this. The dispute is about the likelihood of the rib. Defendant's experts contend that after the age of 50 a rib will no longer regard 'green sticks' with a favorable eye, but that the rib stick and sympathize with it only while plaintiff's experts maintain that she is not so proverbially facile and only while plaintiff's favors from the 'green stick' and bestow all her affection upon the dry, but even at the advanced age of 69 years she has been known, as in this instance, to imitate the green stick. It has even been thus, for we are told in ancient writings, 'Eve turned from Adam, the son of all creation and proprietor of Paradise, to listen to the blandishment of the devil. But we are not going to slander our grandmother, and we have covered up the story with the sins of the world at her door.'"

The learned judges, in conclusion that they are agreed that the jury in the case and the transit company, weigh the evidence. It found that one rib was broken and two others partially broken. The case was tried without error, state Judge Black, Barclay and Goode, and the judgment of the lower court is affirmed.

clared to herself, "and it brought me unhappiness. This one will be a white or orange and I know that it will be accompanied by good fortune."

She stitched away in the seclusion of her room and the trousers were finished on the day her mother returned from the South.

Three days afterward, Aug. 8, 1901, the second wedding took place. The bride's wedding apparel was conveyed to the Linberry home a day previous. Bolina met his sweetheart-wife there; they caught a downtown car and were soon speeding to Belleville, Ill. They were married by Dr. Shumard of the Belleville Methodist Church. They returned to St. Louis and planned to keep their marriage a secret as long as possible.

CHAPTER IV.

Family Ignored Her.

"We went back to the Linbergs to live," stated Miss Radford to the Post-Dispatch Monday night. "My folks were very angry when they learned that I had married my former husband."

"When I left I misled them by telling them that I was going on a steamboat excursion for the day with Mrs. Linberry. Father grew alarmed when I did not return that night. He went to see Mrs. Linberry and she told him to look in the paper and see the license. All the time that I lived with my husband my relatives refused to speak to me. Even my mother refused to recognize me, and one night in church my brother passed me as if I was a stranger. It nearly broke my heart."

"Soon my husband fell into his old habits. I was the old story, and April 1st I left him finally. After a visit in Kansas City I went back to my parents. The suit for divorce was filed, and today's proceedings make me free again."

Miss Radford stated that her twice-divorced husband is now employed by a letter company. His mother is a widow, she says, and always has been. She has a daughter, two of Bolin's brothers have good positions with a large downtown dry goods firm.

Outside rain and slush and mud; inside, flowers and women and cards. That could happen inside any house, but this was inside a street car. A street car with carpets of velvet and hangings of silk, but with the same kind of straps that we cling to each day and with the same kind of seats. The trolley car in question was "The Bluffs," upon which Mrs. C. L. Haynes of East St. Louis entertained the Hamilton Whist Club of St. Louis Monday.

Mrs. Haynes met her guests at the western end of the Bluffs bridge with a special car, not "The Bluffs." It is too large to cross on the tracks of the bridge. The special took us to East St. Louis, where we changed to "The Bluffs." Men with umbrellas kept the rain from our bonnets while we stepped from one car to the other.

"The Bluffs" was much like a parlor. Smiles and ornate and chrysanthemums were its decorations. The ride through East St. Louis was mostly the reception part of the party. Greetings and instructions took place and the whist players, in order and planning, stepped into the car.

When all the umbrellas had been stood out on the front of the platform with the motorman and all the long coats and mackintoshes and handbags and hats were in receptacles the folding tables were unfolded and the game began.

Whist on Car Makes a Good Appetite.

When that tray was over I pointed out beautiful trees and white sycamore trees and odd-looking pieces of land with great industry. Through Collinsville quickly and then passed into the farming country beyond. We stopped for a few seconds to look at some children in a country schoolhouse, but mostly we played as we went up hill.

WHAT FAIR NEEDS FROM ST. LOUIS

More Hotels and Cars, Commissioners Say.

John M. Allen, national World's Fair commissioner, who, with his fellow commissioners, is in session at the Southern Hotel, says that the duty of providing sufficient hotel accommodations for World's Fair visitors rests on the officers of the Fair corporation.

"I expressed this opinion to William H. Thompson," said Mr. Allen. "I told him that the Exposition company should make some action that would insure the city's ability to accommodate the mass of visitors who will come to the Exposition."

Chairman T. H. Carter was not present at the opening session. Others who attended commented on the lack of hotel accommodations.

Commissioner Betts said that St. Louis could not tonight accommodate 500 more transients than the ordinary number. "The best hotels keep you waiting all day to assign you to a room," he said, "and simply because they have not the accommodations."

Commissioner John F. Miller of Indiana said: "If the city undertakes to hold a World's Fair without adequate hotel accommodations, it will be a failure."

Mr. Betts said that he had spoken to Mr. Thompson about the need for hotels and for street car facilities, and that Mr. Thompson had told him that persons outside the Fair management should build the hotels, and that, according to General Manager Dupont, the present street car accommodations are sufficient. Mr. Betts disagreed especially with the last statement, saying that the cars would not now accommodate an ordinary Sunday crowd.

CLERKS WISH TO SHARE PROSPERITY

Railroads Have Not Increased Their Salaries.

COST OF LIVING IS HIGHER

ONLY UNIONIZED EMPLOYEES HAVE BEEN BENEFITED.

Clerical Forces Have Become Convinced That Something Must Be Done to Secure Recognition From Railroad Authorities.

Railroad clerks of St. Louis are complaining that the prosperity apparently extending to every class of railroad labor has not reached them. They say that their branch of employment has seen not an increase of monthly salaries, but augmented work instead.

In an interview with the Post-Dispatch today a veteran clerk, who is said to be thoroughly conversant with the situation, who desires his name withheld, said: "Why is it that the railroad corporations which are so desirous of credit for their wage increases do not pay attention to the needs of the railroad clerks?"

"There is every evidence that they confine themselves to the organized or unionized portions of their employees, while the remaining two-thirds are not permitted to enjoy the benefits of this actual period of prosperity, although the companies freely acknowledge that business is greater and that living expenses are higher than ever before."

"The enlargement in the volume of traffic has brought heavier duties to the railroad clerks. He has to work harder than ever, while his salary, on the other hand, has actually been reduced until on the average clerks do not earn within 20 per cent, in proportion to the number employed, what they did five years ago. The exception in the increase of work only pertains to clerks in the general offices."

"The Missouri Pacific heralded the fact that it had restored salaries, when, instead, it established a lower salary."

"For example, before the cut its bill clerks received $70 a month. The reduction of 5 per cent brought salary down to $66.50 a month. With salaries restored in other divisions of the work bill clerks are still getting $65.50."

"The policy of St. Louis offices appears to be along the line of cutting the salary of a position with every change. This has been carried to such an extreme with the rank and file that it is necessary to do something."

"When the Missouri Pacific restored salaries in the papers it was only to those who were holding the same positions they had at the time of the cut, but not to the standard position demanded. The result is that not one out of 50 of the clerks was benefited. The honor was an empty one."

"It is noticeable that in all the increases of wages that one reads of nowadays there is never an article relating that the clerks."

PROGRESS IN PORTO RICO.

Much Attention Is Being Paid to Road Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The annual report of W. H. Elliott, commissioner of the interior for Porto Rico, announces substantial progress along all governmental lines in the island. Much attention is being paid to road building and bridge construction in order to assure to labor the means of reaching the markets with the products of the soil. The Porto Ricans are being instructed what to plant and how to cultivate most economically and profitably. Sanitary rules and regulations have been introduced and the people encouraged in the habits of cleanliness and correct living and also assisted in matters affecting trade and commerce at home and abroad. Concerning the public lands, the report says, the various departments of the federal government will be asked to make known their wishes concerning property at present occupied by or needed for their accommodation. The bulk of property involved comprises lands of little present value, but which may, if the island continues to develop and prosper as conditions now prevailing warrant, become valuable. They need to be located and their boundaries determined. It is hoped that all questions be settled and presidential action secured in time for the legislative assembly of Porto Rico to provide for the disposition of island property at the session to be held during January and February, 1903.

MACHINE GUNS TO QUELL RIOT

Ready to Be Trained on Mobs of Strikers.

"SHOOT TO KILL," THE ORDER

MAYOR TELLS POLICE THEY MUST PRESERVE PEACE.

Situation Is So Grave That a Cabinet Crisis May Arise From It, One Member Having Already Resigned.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1902, by the Press Publishing Co.) HAVANA, Nov. 25.—Cigar factory strike riots in Havana, in which two strikers have been killed and 82 others injured in conflict with the police, have paralyzed business in the city.

The mayor has read the riot act and issued orders to the police to shoot to kill, if necessary, to preserve order. Machine guns are ready to be trained on the crowds, and if the rioting is renewed grave results are feared.

Senor Tamayo, who is blamed for the trouble by the public for inducing the action of the strikers, is clamoring for the admission of Cuban children into factories and the strike has been settled.

The strikers maintain that Spanish children are admitted to factories, to the exclusion of Cuban children, and on this they base their strike.

The police have the rioters under control today and every precaution is being taken to prevent further trouble.

Guards in the suburbs have been summoned to concentrate in Havana.

Soldiers have been stationed about all the cigar factories to prevent incendiarism, which has been threatened.

It is feared that a cabinet crisis is imminent. The situation is considered very grave.

The police have not made any arrests, owing to the pronounced sympathy of the majority of the city officials with the strikers.

No bread or meat is on sale, and a continuation of the strike will cause much suffering among the poor.

Every branch of labor within and without the city is threatened with hunger.

The better class of citizens is clamoring for the immediate return of the American troops and the strikers are striking.

The strike became general Monday morning when traffic was attempted on the street cars. Supt. Greenwood had asked for protection from the civil governor, but the authorities found themselves unable to protect the cars.

A suspension of traffic was, therefore, ordered at 10 a. m. The strike, which at first only concerned the cigar workers, became general by the calling out of all trades in sympathy with the cigar makers.

All the shopkeepers closed their doors, and every class of workers obeyed the command of the union, except the motor-men and conductors of the electric cars, who refused to join the general strike.

Rioting began at daybreak by the stopping of the electric cars by strikers. The cars were stoned in the outskirts of the city, and the passengers were compelled to walk into Havana, among these being the British and German ministers.

"PURELY A CUBAN AFFAIR." Washington's View of the Strike Riots at Havana.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The Havana riots are regarded by the war department as purely a Cuban affair, and intervention by the United States soldiers stationed there is looked upon as out of the question.

Four batteries of United States artillery, comprising about 400 men, are now at Havana guarding the fortifications against the possibility of the strikers attempting to take possession of them.

Should the rioters attempt seizure of these arms the American soldiers would defend them.

Such a situation, however, is regarded by the war department as an impossibility, as under no other conditions would the United States troops interfere.

No official information regarding the riots has been received by either the war or state department.

Which accounts for the fact that during the month of October 311 wants appeared in the Horse and Vehicle Columns of the Post-Dispatch. YOUNG HUSBAND RELEASED. "Step-Grandfather" Tried in Vain to Have Him Held.

As predicted by the police, the charge of forging a railroad pass preferred against 19-year-old George Sexton yesterday would not "stick" and the young man was released after a detention at the Four Courts of little more than an hour.

He eloped with Miss Rosa Alda Gort, the prospective bride traveling to Poplar Bluff, Mo., where the couple were married, on a pass for "Mrs. George Sexton." Sexton's step-grandfather had him arrested.

BEGGARS' GALLERY PROPOSED. Part of Plan to Suppress Professional Mendicancy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—In his annual report of the work of the Central Council of the Charity Organization Society, President Robert deForest describes a novel method which has just been adopted for the purpose of detecting and punishing professional beggars and syndicates of mendicancy.

It is proposed to establish a record bureau similar to the Bureau of the police department, where detailed records of beggars are accessible, the object being to deter habitual mendicants from plying their trade in New York and other large cities.

Deed for Inch and Three-Quarters of land on Vernon avenue with a frontage of only an inch and three-quarters, was sold Monday and proves to be the smallest parcel of land ever sold in the history of St. Louis. C. O. Cunningham of 648 Vernon avenue transferred the ground to William McDade, who owns a lot at 450 Vernon avenue. McDade purchased the lot recently from Cunningham, and when it was surveyed it was found to be an inch and three-quarters shorter than the deed called for. Cunningham owned the lot adjoining and to keep faith with McDade, the shortage was given.

GOSPEL AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Union Meetings on a Large Scale Are Planned by Ministers of Evangelical Alliance.

The St. Louis Evangelical Alliance has requested from the various denominations and congregations of the city an expression of their views relative to a concentrated preaching of the gospel during the World's Fair.

At the regular meeting yesterday there was a sharp debate and the secretary was instructed to obtain the opinions of the churches. The plan is to hold union meetings. These meetings, it is believed, would attract wide attention. They would be of an interdenominational nature, and ministers of world-wide renown would be secured to conduct them. Some great hall, such as Music Hall, would be secured in which to hold the services, and each denomination would stand its pro rata of the expense.

At the meeting yesterday Circuit Attorney Folger's brother, Rev. Dr. Edgar Folger of Nashville, Tenn., Rev. W. A. Speed of Oropah College, Florida, and Rev. Robert L. Layfield of Kansas City were visitors.

FLED IN HER BRIDAL ROBES

Young Girl Suddenly Concluded She Would Not Marry, Escaped From Wedding Party and Disappeared.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 25.—With her bridal veil flying and her white satin dress disheveled and stained, 15-year-old Alice Wells rushed down Thirteenth street at noon, closely followed by Soph Banks, her intended husband, and her father. The wedding was set for noon, and the party were on their way to church, when suddenly the girl stamped her foot and said: "I won't get married, not to Soph, nor any other man. I won't! I won't! I'm too young to get married, and I just won't do it."

Banks grabbed one arm of the girl and her father the other. They began to plead with her, but suddenly turning on their heels, she ran down the street, dodging in and out of the crowd of spectators which had gathered.

A few moments later she had reached her home, only one block distant. Entering the front door, she passed through the house and out the back way.

Where a single trace of her has been found since. She has disappeared completely.

STOP COUGHING

You must stop that coughing at once, or before you know it your lungs will be affected and your life endangered by pneumonia or consumption. At this time of the year you must be particularly careful, as throat and lung troubles are hovering around, and

DEATH IS NEAR oftentimes nearer than you can possibly imagine. Only last week a strong, robust young man, in the prime of life, who lived in White Plains and did business in New York City, had a slight cough. It was no slight that he paid no attention to it, and in a spirit of bravado continued his office work. In four days it went to his lungs, and he died from pneumonia within a week. Many such cases are happening every day, and every one of them can easily be cured by

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

The dose is a teaspoonful in a half glass of water every two hours until the cough is relieved. It is a SURE CURE. It will cure any cough in 14 days if the patient will use it as directed.

CURED WEAK LUNGS.

Dear Sirs: Having suffered with weak lungs, severe cough and loss of appetite I tried nearly all medicines, but without benefit. A few weeks ago, on advice, I commenced the use of your Pure Malt Whiskey. My appetite improved almost immediately, my cough stopped and my lungs are as strong as ever, my strength has returned, and I shall continue its use. Respectfully, FLORENCE WHITING, No. 136 C St. N. W., Washington, Jan. 4, 1902.

STOPPED HEMORRHAGES.

Gentlemen—My lung trouble is two years old. Had about eight or ten hemorrhages. Broke me down in weight and strength. The last, in February, was the worst of all, so that I thought and believed myself that I could not see another summer. When I commenced to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey my weight was 117 pounds; my weight today is 139 pounds; made a good improvement in every respect. I feel stronger from day to day; no hemorrhage since I used the Whiskey.—GOTTFRIED EBER.

IT IS ABSOLUTELY PURE.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey cures coughs, colds, consumption, grip, bronchitis and pneumonia. It stimulates and enriches the blood, aids digestion, builds up the nerve system, tones up the heart and fortifies the system against disease germs. It prolongs life, keeps the old young and the young strong. It contains no fusel oil and is the only whiskey recognized by the Government as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers, in order to get the appearance of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations, and so-called Malt Whiskey substitutes, which are put on the market for profit only and which are far from relieving the sick and restoring the healthy. Demand "Duffy's" and be sure you get it. It is the only absolutely pure malt whiskey which contains no medicinal, health-giving and tonic. Look for the trade-mark, "The Old Blend," on the label.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct at $1.00 a bottle. Write for free medical booklet containing symptoms and treatment of each disease, and convincing testimonials, to the Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

POLICEMAN DRANK WITH PRISONER

The Police Committee of the Belleville City Council is making a lively effort to ascertain what member of the police force so far forgot the dignity of his position as to take a drink with a prisoner.

A few days ago an anonymous story was printed by one of the Belleville English papers and one of the German papers about a policeman who arrested a man for a minor offense and was taking him to the station when the prisoner suggested that they stop at a saloon and have a drink. The policeman, according to the story, was no more than a saloon and still another was taken another and still another was offered by the liberal prisoner.

After a while the policeman suggested to his prisoner that they would better pick up their things and go to the station. The prisoner said nay with some emphasis. If he was taken to the station, he said, he would have to tell about the drinks that were taken en route. The policeman saw that his prisoner had him, and he and the released prisoner went their separate ways.

When the members of the City Council read the story they were shocked, and the police committee was instructed to make an investigation. They have called upon the editors of the newspapers for the name of the policeman and have been told that it cannot be divulged, and they are now pursuing an independent line of investigation.

CLEAGE TAKES ALL THE INSURANCE

Has Secured $600,000 Worth of Elevator Policies.

GRAIN NOT YET DELIVERED

COUP TOPIC OF CONVERSATION ON 'CHANGE TODAY.

Thomas A. Cleage, the uncrowned corn king, has secured all the elevator insurance that was available in St. Louis in addition to that held by the elevator companies.

His broker, John Thyson, stated to the Post-Dispatch that Mr. Cleage had secured $600,000 worth of elevator insurance.

Experts say that this means that Mr. Cleage will have insurance for 1,500,000 bushels of the corn that he expects to have delivered to him in December.

While Mr. Cleage may not have all the insurance he needs, his position in getting the $600,000 worth of insurance places him at other brokers where they will have to do without insurance for the grain delivered to them in December unless they can get it from the elevator companies.

A prominent insurance agent who handles much elevator insurance stated to the Post-Dispatch that the $600,000 worth of insurance was the aggregate of insurance that could be secured on St. Louis grain elevators.

"I do not know exactly how much insurance Mr. Cleage secured," said Mr. Slaughter, "but I imagine that it is a statement that he has got up all that remained available is true. For I cannot see any more for my customers and I don't know that any other insurance man can."

CLEAGE'S COUP.

Grain men say that formerly all the elevator insurance was controlled by the elevator companies and that when this condition prevailed it was impossible for brokers to secure grain elevator insurance unless they got it from the elevator companies.

Mr. Cleage, they say, just obtained the first instance of an individual broker getting all the available insurance.

Mr. Cleage's coup was the subject of general gossip on 'Change this morning. Many old brokers and also many insurance men joined in a laugh over a morning newspaper statement that Mr. Cleage secured himself against all possible losses in his speculations by the insurance he had secured.

"If policies like that could be bought," said one of the insurance men, "we'd all quit the business and turn speculators."

More gossip concerning Mr. Cleage was started by the appearance of a placard about the hallways just outside the main entrance to the floor of the exchange, announcing that "no loitering or lounging would be permitted in the doorway and corridors leading to the exchange."

A. H. Babcock, one of Mr. Cleage's brokers, and who, like Mr. Cleage, is not a member of the exchange, called the attention of the Post-Dispatch to the placards this morning in a manner indicating that he interpreted the action as being directed at the Cleage forces.

The custom of insuring grain before its delivery is not new with Mr. Cleage. It has long been followed by brokers who buy large quantities of grain for future delivery.

WILLING TO TAKE RISK.

When a broker pays cash for grain on delivery and does not intend to sell it at once he always wishes to have insurance on the full amount he stores to protect himself from possible complete loss by fire. The amount charged by the companies for this insurance differs with the amount of time it is to be held and the elevator in which it is stored.

The insurance companies are perfectly willing to insure grain that is to be delivered in the future. This risk is known as "warehouse" insurance and the longer the grain is en route to the elevators the greater the risk.

Grain elevators are considered comparatively dangerous risks by the insurance companies and the amount of insurance thereon is limited by each company.

This limit runs from $500 in the smaller companies to $2,500 in the largest companies. Previously to the destruction of the St. Louis elevator by fire, which was not more than $20,000 on any St. Louis elevator, the limit was $5,000.

It is in this way that the allotment of insurance to St. Louis grain elevators is limited and it was from this knowledge that Mr. Slaughter estimated that the total amount of insurance that could possibly be secured on the four largest St. Louis grain elevators if they were held empty. Each of them was stocked with considerable grain when Mr. Cleage's agents started out to get what they might or they would have tried to get $1,000,000 worth.

MAN WHO "INVENTED" THE FLAT IS DEAD

KILPATRICK ERECTED FIRST ONE IN NEW YORK IN 1853.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The man who "invented" the New York flat is dead. He was Thomas Kilpatrick, and he built his first flat house in 1853. Since then he built 250 of them.

Many authorities say that the apartment house was a New York idea and that the one Mr. Kilpatrick built was the first in the world.

Mr. Kilpatrick was born in Killylea, County Armagh, Ireland, in 1822, and came to America in 1848.

When Mr. Kilpatrick's first venture in East Thirtieth street was accomplished, in 1853, there were just five families in New York dwelling in what might properly be termed apartments.

He lived to see more than 75 per cent of the inhabitants of the city housed in that way.

Mr. Kilpatrick had two interests, besides building a modern city, close to his heart—fast trotting horses and the Methodist Episcopal Church, and he managed to reconcile them so well that horsemen never looked upon him as a Methodist and Methodists never looked upon him as a horseman.

His friends used to say that he would drop any employment to go to a trot or a prayer meeting.

It was their interest in horses that made Mr. Kilpatrick, Commodore Vanderbilt and Robert Bonner comrades for many years.

Like Mr. Bonner, Mr. Kilpatrick never faced his horses for money, though there may have been times when he was conveniently blind to the speculations of the men who trained them.

His stable won many a notable victory at Flatwood. Sir Walter and Lady Winfield were among his best-known horses.

Two weeks before Sir Walter died Mr. Kilpatrick had a chance to sell him for $12,000.

A great part of the large fortune Mr. Kilpatrick made from his business was given to the Methodist Church.

There were few laymen of greater influence in the denomination and few more powerful and convincing speakers at religious meetings.

DEATH OF JAMES JOHNSON.
Expired Suddenly Yesterday—Funeral Plans Not Made.

Arrangements for the funeral of James Johnson, the stenographer who died yesterday morning at the City Hospital, have not yet been made. The man was 45 years old and had no relatives in this city.

Johnson was at one time a newspaper reporter and later a stenographer in the Court of Criminal Correction. He was a congenial, half-fellow with men and it was not long after his arrival in St. Louis before he had a large circle of friends.

He was appointed secretary of the Missouri state Senate for one term, and at the time of his death was employed by the World's Fair Co.

He was taken suddenly ill at his home, 219 Pine street, early yesterday morning and died shortly after being taken to the City Hospital.

TO TEACH PUBLIC NEATNESS.
Waste Paper Box to be Placed at Downtown Corner.

A waste paper box will be placed on a conspicuous downtown corner by President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvement and it is hoped by the Civic Improvement League that it will prove an example of what might be done toward keeping the city clean by a number of such boxes placed at frequented places throughout the city.

The sample box was offered by the waste paper boxes committee of the league, of which A. G. Fish is chairman. It is believed that after the people become used to the innovation they will naturally look about for some receptacle in which they can deposit waste material, which can be readily picked up and carried away by city employees.

AFTER HUNTINGTON'S ESTATE.
Lawyer for Central Pacific Stockholders Revises an Old Claim.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Efforts to make the executors of the estate of C. P. Huntington file an inventory are being made by Walter Moraband, formerly a London barrister, but now a resident of this city.

A motion to that effect has been set for a hearing on Dec. 3, in a suit on a claim for $100,000, which, it is alleged, belongs to the stockholders of the Central Pacific Railroad.

The defendants in the suit are the executors of the estate, Charles H. Tweed, Isaac E. Gates and Arabella Huntington. Mr. Tweed today refused to discuss the suit, which it is believed is the revival of a claim of many years' standing.

Fraud is alleged in the finances of the railroad and the papers recite that $100,000 was provided to build the line which cost only $50,000, leaving $50,000 to be accounted for.

St. Louis University Mass.—Requiem mass for the souls of departed instructors and students of the St. Louis University is to be solemnized at 8:30 to-morrow morning in the college church. The priest who will deliver the sermon, the master of ceremonies and the other officers of the mass are alumni of the institution, as also are the organist and the members of the choir. The celebrant of the mass will be Rev. P. O'Reilly, the deacon, Rev. J. J. Hart, and the sub-deacon, Rev. T. V. Walsh. Rev. J. J. Tannagh will preach the memorial sermon, and Mr. J. M. Farrell, S. J., will be master of ceremonies. The university choir will sing, with Mr. A. F. Frumveller, S. J., as director and Mr. A. A. Welsch as organist.

SMOKE DEVICES IN 807 PLANTS

Inspector Jones Says Railroad and Steamboat Companies Will Soon Join Factories.

The report Smoke Inspector Jones made to Mayor Wells yesterday shows that there are 807 plants in this city which are equipped with smoke-consuming devices. Some do not comply with the law, but they have been notified and will be prosecuted if they do not come up to all the requirements.

The various railroad and steamboat companies have been experimenting with devices and will shortly comply with the ordinance, requiring them to consume their own smoke, says Mr. Jones.

AWARDS ALIMONY TO HUSBAND

Detroit Court's Unique Decree Gives Man Second Place in the Marital Relation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 25.—In his final decree in the Miles case, Judge Donovan effectually put Miles in a secondary place by practically awarding him alimony.

Mrs. Miles is to pay $400 in four years in monthly installments.

The court gave the wife the Miles Business College, saying he made the award because he was satisfied that she was the more competent to conduct the school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miles ran the business college together, but testimony in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Miles showed that she was the actual head. Miles tried to take the management out of her hands, and all the pupils quit until she was restored to power.

Mrs. Miles is to take over all the assets and assume all the liabilities of the business college and is authorized to withhold $50 for her legal expenses from the first two monthly installments.

Mr. Gregg's Condition Serious.

The condition of George W. Gregg, who was injured in a railroad explosion yesterday, is considered very serious by the physicians at the City Hospital. His condition is a compound fracture of the skull and a deep scalp wound.

Mr. Gregg, who is superintendent of the St. Louis Brass Manufacturing Co., accidentally knocked a wet casting into a white-hot furnace and there was an instant explosion. The casting was blown out with terrific violence, striking Mr. Gregg on the head.
